One of the saddest events of the week was the death of Mr. Charles Alexander, 2212 Lawton Avenue, who passed away Sunday evening, December 14, at 6:30 p. m. Mr. Alexander was the devoted husband of Mrs. L. A. Alexander, who died last week at 6:30 p. m. Mr. Alexander was a member of the First Baptist Church. He was a well known and respected citizen in the community in which he lived. He was employed by the All-American Chemical Co. for many years, and was a devoted and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

Playing is "Flit" Ben Limit Nightly. A vaudeville bill full of talent, supported by plenty of "top" in the Booker Washington Theatre on "Flit" Ben Limit at each show this week.

William and Goodall, a sister team, have a number of good songs and an original line of humorous conversation. Their last numbers are "With I Could Sleep Until My Body Comes Home" and "No." The team scores a hit.

Laura Smith, a blackface comedienne, makes a decided hit with her witty monologues. Although her songs are not new, she has a way of putting them over that gets the crowd to its liking. Her dancing also was applauded.

Montgomery and McNeill, a sister team, have a number of good songs and an original line of humorous conversation. Their last numbers are "With I Could Sleep Until My Body Comes Home" and "No." The team scores a hit.

Patricia and Furbish, a mixed team, have a number of good songs and an original line of humorous conversation. Their last numbers are "With I Could Sleep Until My Body Comes Home" and "No." The team scores a hit.

2 DAYS...THIS SATURDAY AND SUNDAY
William Farnum, in
"Riders Of The Purple Sage"

The Three Big Specials, at the Olympia Theatre the coming week, a very "Empty Pockets" on Sunday, a very story of New York's slum and palaces; William Farnum in "Les Miserables," next Tuesday, a stupendous production of Victor Hugo's famous story; and the "Callahan" next Thursday, the great international intrigue that rolled all four quarters of the earth. It was the most conspicuous case of treason in the present.

The Pendleton Theatre will show a number of special features during the coming week. On the Saturday and Sunday William Farnum will be seen in "Riders of the Purple Sage." The old classic "Les Miserables" will be shown on Monday, with Marguerite Clark starting in a picture. Other big features will be shown each night.

NT. LOUIS LIEUTENANT STARS IN FOOTBALL GAME In a football game at Atlanta, on Thanksgiving Day, a U. S. Machine Gun eleven won over the Morehouse College team by 7 to 6. This is the first time the college team has been beaten in 15 years. Little James Reed, a St. Louis boy, was the star of the game. Reed made 10 yards on a forward pass before he was fowled.

HIGH CLASS WINTER SERVICE AT THE PENNYFOLK L. C. PARLOR The Pennington "on Green Fair" 42nd West Flury, has a winter service that is proving quite popular. New that there are two picture houses on the thoroughfare, theater parlors are the best. The Pennington's cold weather service, including high top shoes, sport, soap, coffee, pie, cake and a still that is making the place famous. Mr. Allen Jones, the proprietor, also has a high class complete service. A grade of fancy fruits and a full supply of all kinds of cigars and tobacco.

Joe Sims and Popo Warfield are at the Grand this week.

THOMAS NELSON, MUSICIAN, ONE IN CAMP Wm. Thomas Nelson, well known violinist, music teacher and former vaudeville star, who was called to the camp October 12, and was killed in the family lot, is being buried today at 11. He leaves two brothers, two sisters and a mother. One of the brothers has just returned to his home after visiting St. Louis in an effort to locate Mr. Nelson's trunk. He was unsuccessful and hopes that any one who knows its whereabouts will inform him. His name and address is Chas. E. Nelson, 1014 Douglas street, Birmingham, Ala. Or anyone having the above knowledge may communicate.
